FAIRMOUNT COLLEGE NOTES.

The week has been full of stirring events. The debating contest was disappointing as far as the decision of the judges was concerned. No doubt a mile is as good as a mile, but to lose the decision on a margin of one-fourth of one per cent increases the regret, especially when the judges gave Fairmount first place on argument, on logical arrangement and on team work. Morrison, Jones and Lee fully sustained Fairmount's reputation in the field of debate.

Myron Boyle had charge of Fairmount's "yelling team," and fully sustained his reputation as an organizer.

Nearly four hundred persons attended the reception given after the debate. Everybody had a good time, but the crowd was too large for the reception parlors too small for the occasion.

Winfield sent up a fine delegation of nearly one hundred students. Professors Klassen and Miller headed the delegations.

Among the old students visiting the college during the week was Ernest Day, who has just graduated from the leading medical school in Kansas City. Dr. Day will locate in Arkansas City.

W. S. Fleming, '99, who has been attending the John Creighton Medical college, visited his old classmates Friday. Several new students enrolled during the week.

Mrs. Morrison and Miss Clough have contributed toward the sociability of college circles by giving two receptions at the residence of the former the past week. On Tuesday evening the Academic students were the guests. Owing to the unfavorable weather and the fact that no cars were running, those from town were not able to be present, but about twenty-two braved the elements and were rewarded and rewarded their entertainers by enjoying themselves heartily.

On Wednesday evening was in honor of the Freshman class, and also included the bachelor professors. Each one was expected to sustain an historical or fictitious character. In addition to supporting his own reputation, and interrogation points constituted a large part of the conversation, as each tried to discover the assumed name of his or her neighbor. Couples were paired for refreshments by means of proverbs cut in twain, each gentleman finding the young lady whose card completed his proverb. There was regret that some had to hasten away in order to catch their cars.

FRIENDS UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Friends University has had a very encouraging, prosperous growth in this, the second year of its existence—more than doubling its average attendance of the first year.

A very earnest Christian spirit has pervaded the community, bringing about a great revival that has touched the hearts of almost the entire body of students, and has reached out into the surrounding neighborhood, carrying its multitudes of blessings with it. With the blessing of God and the hearty co-operation of each member throughout the year, the Friends University will become a great power for good, for the promotion of a Christian education, for the advancement of Christ's kingdom, in which is the hope of the "righteousness which shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

Friends have ever been held as leaders in Christian educational work, but never before in the history of the church has a greater opportunity been afforded for the spread of the principles of peace, temperance and other ennobling precepts given by the humble and faithful George Fox, than is now offered them.

The Children's Endowment Fund for Friends University ought to stand out in bold relief to inspire the rising generation to true steps and noble efforts which shall tend to roll the system of human affairs a little higher—a little nearer the Goodness of God.

The Yearly Meeting at its last session advised that all Sabbath schools should encourage a liberal collection to be taken on Children's Day, the first Sabbath in May, which shall be given to the Children's Endowment Fund of Friends University, that each child and young person, together with all adults, may give a great or small sum that shall go to build up this endowment fund. In this way each child and each individual may feel that he has a personal ownership and a personal responsibility in the maintenance of the university, and that each may help to build up an institution which shall strive to promote in its students things as true, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report.

In order to make the university sure for one and all rely to its support and upbuilding. Please contribute to the collection to Albert L. Cox, treasurer, Lawrence, Kan.; John G. Kirby, vice president of the board of directors of Friends University.

FAZEL & ADAMS BUSINESS COLLEGE NOTES.

Copy for that new catalogue is now in the hands of the printer and the friends of Mr. Adams may now meet him fearlessly. He will not pull that "dummy" from his pocket and enlarge upon the beauties of the future publication, but look out for him in a few days, when he pulls the real thing on you.

No increase in number of students during the past week and no diminution. The following named persons were dismissed from the spelling class for making an average above 90 in three successive tests: Elizabeth Keathley, 87; Winifred Richards, 91; Paul Stoumeyer, 91. For making an average through the course: Phyllis Armstrong, 93; Anna Chase, 93; Verna Springgale, 93; Madeline Freeland, 93; S. T. Jocelyn, 93; Lillian Hardin, 93.

A rather speedy class of typewriters is developing—Miss Gertrude Patel, Messrs. S. T. Jocelyn, Otto P. Myers, Paul Stoumeyer, Earl Steiner, Mr. Stain. They held the watch today for S. T. Jocelyn, as 25 words from dictation, new matter, and at 110 words, practice sentences. These young people are very industrious, averaging more than two hours per day in actual practice upon the typewriter, besides their regular studies.

Mr. V. M. Davidson has just completed his course, and takes a responsible position. Miss Lillian Hutton, a former graduate, has taken a position in the city office of the Price railroad.

LEWIS ACADEMY.

Miss Ida Hight, who has been visiting relatives in Newton, returned to school Wednesday.

The new students enrolled during the past week were: Miss Pearl Whittemore, Mrs. Fannie Holmes, Miss Shuffelberger and Mr. Fred Nelson.

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

A fair-sized audience greeted the minstrel carnival at the Crawford theatre last night. The curtain rose on a very pretty setting and the first part was an exceptionally good. The chorus as well as the solos were well rendered.

The audience seemed pleased with funny business, and while the gags of a colored troupe are usually not as good as those given by a white minstrel company, the Nashville Students got off a number of really clever and funny sayings. The sketch, "Man Wanted," by Ray Trusty and Miss Taylor was well presented and very funny. The Carter Brothers, acrobats and contortionists, exhibited great skill in their performance. Those who were so fortunate as to see the show were well satisfied, while the noon street parade delighted the multitude.

Monday, Belle Archer in "A Contented Woman."

A CONTENTED WOMAN.

Beautiful and engaging as always, Miss Belle Archer increased the number of her admirers here by her spirited acting in the role of "Grace Holmes" in "A Contented Woman" at the Bastable last evening.

This clever satire by Charles H. Hoyt on the new woman in politics is so familiar to theatre goers that reference to its humorous qualities or to the lesson conveyed by it is wholly unnecessary at this time. As a farcical comedy it wears well. Its dialogue seems just as crisp, its wit just as spontaneous as when they were first made known, and as it is entrusted to a capable company, its presentation results in the customary enjoyment to spectators.

Miss Archer has now so thoroughly in the role of the woman who runs for office only to become disgusted with politics that her impersonation exerts more than a former fascination because of the elaboration of many little details that give it completeness and strengthen the desired illusion. Few changes in the membership of this company have been made since last year and its consequence a very even and spirited performance is given—Post-Standard, Syracuse, N. Y.

Miss Archer will be at the Crawford theatre Monday next, April 15.

The mere announcement that at the Crawford theatre next Monday evening Hoyt's phenomenally successful comedy, "A Contented Woman," will be presented, will be enough to call out one of the largest and most fashionable audiences of the season. Hoyt's plays are well liked by our theatre-goers, and anything from his fertile brain is sure to command wide attention. His "A Contented Woman" comes strongly endorsed as the best and most successful effort of his career as a playwright. It will be presented here with all the stage effects used at Hoyt's theatre, New York, and by a cast that is the strongest and most complete ever presenting a Hoyt comedy.

"A Contented Woman" will be presented here with all the stage effects used at Hoyt's theatre, New York, and by a cast that is the strongest and most complete ever presenting a Hoyt comedy.

There is an abundance of rollicking, spirited music, while the specialties are numerous and all of them reported as being new and up-to-date. One of the specialty performers is Bonnie Lottie, the sensational dancer, whose specialty consists of a series of the most marvelous and seemingly impossible poses and figures, all done with the most exquisite grace and ease. As a finale, the little woman commences to spin on one foot, slowly at first, then faster and faster, until the audience cannot distinguish her features and the rapidity of her movements.

The above title is, perhaps, more familiar to novel readers than any title ever before placed upon the cover of a book. This statement will, of course, also apply to the novel itself. Certain it is that no story ever told or written has created the attention and interest that has been accomplished by this wonderful written book.

The subject is sacred, the characters are historical and the events both grand and delicate. These qualities form a strange foundation to build a drama upon, and for a time none were brave enough to undertake the task. At length it was accomplished, and today the most wonderful dramatic success of the age is "Quo Vadis." To account for this, after all, is not difficult. The story told in "Quo Vadis" and reproduced as in actual life in the play of the same name, is so nobly grand, so beautifully sympathetic, so devoutly religious, and with all so absorbingly interesting, that one cannot fail to become subject to its strange and fascinating influence.

As a novel and as a play, there has not been one voice raised against the reading of the one or witnessing the other. People who have never heretofore been on the inside of a theatre have flocked to witness "Quo Vadis." It will be seen at the Crawford theatre in this city next week.

The National Aid association will give another one of their popular literary and musical entertainments and ball next Wednesday evening, April 18, at their hall, 214 North Main street.

Blanchard Kavanaugh and Roney Boyer Concert.

Chicago Tribune: Kavanaugh's voice is a high baritone of remarkably sweet and sympathetic quality, retaining the purity and tenderness which, won so many hearts, with the added of great dramatic power and maturity of style.

"Cedar Rapids Record: The Kavanaugh 'Roney' Boys' concert was one of the best attended and probably the best liked of any given in this city in a long time. Every seat in the church was filled and chairs placed in the aisles. If there was a woman in the audience who didn't wish she was the mother or the sister of each one of "Roney's Boys," there was something lacking in her education. The boys all possess the same winning manner which distinguishes a "Roney Boy." A second appearance of this concert company would again pack the church.

Belitt (Wils.) Free Press: The program at the Roney concert was one of delightful pleasure all the way through and endore and recall were demanded and given until both singers and the audience were exhausted. The audience was very large every available inch of room being crowded, and many were unable to get seats. Prof. Roney's company is superb, and the applause at the church last evening was almost continuous.

St. John's Episcopal church should be filled to overflowing on next Tuesday evening to hear this concert. The generous praise given this company all over the land is sufficient guarantee that the entertainment will be one of very high quality and at the same time pleasing.

FRAUD IN CHINESE ADMISSION

Charged That 100 a Month are Being Let in Illegally.

San Francisco, April 13.—The Call this morning says that thousands of Chinese are passing the barrier of the custom house and not only are being landed, but are being made native-born citizens of California, each with a vote and qualifications to participate in the political affairs of this city and state. It is asserted that during the last thirty-four months over 10,000 Chinese have been landed, and of these at least 100 a month have been admitted on the ground that they were born in this state, which fact being admitted entitles them to the rights of citizenship. Charges are made that this influx of Orientals is only made possible by fraudulent evasions of the restriction act.

Collector of the Port Jackson said: "The articles in which it is stated that there is looseness in the admission of Chinese is unfair and untrue in every respect. The figures ignore the fact that a great portion of those are simply returning merchants and laborers. It will be found that the number admitted for the first time is less than in former years."

New York, April 13.—A Herald special from Washington says: Brigadier-General Theodore Schwartz will return home from Manila with General Otis. His return is in the interest of his health.
